ORLEANS' LAME EXCUSE

HE RETURNED TO PARIS TO ENTER THE MILITARY SERVICE.

On Being Arraigned Charced With Violating the Law Expelling Bim From France, He Asks for Time to Explain, and It is Granted

Panis, Feb. 8 .- The Duke of Orleans, who was arrested yesterday upon his arrival in this city on suspicion of being engaged in a royalist plot to overthrew the Government and also for violating the law bantshing his father, the Count of Paris, and himself from France as enemies of the republic, occupied comfortable apartments at the residence of the Duchess De Chartres. The Princess Marguerite and other friends will be permitted to visit the Duke. M. Constans, the Minister of the Interior, has ordered that he be treated with dis-

The Republique Française, the government organ, makes no comment upon the arrest, but merely quotes the expulsion law, which provides a penalty of from two to five years' imprisonment for its violation. Le Paix and the Journal des Debats both advocate that the Duke be reconducted to the frontier.

The Cabinet to-day decided to enforce the law in the case of the Duke, and he was arraigned this morning, charged with violating the law expressly passed by the government banishing both himself and father as enemies of the republic. The Duke said that he returned to France weakly for the purpose. to France merely for the purpose of performing the military duties im posed by the laws of France on all youths upon attaining the age of 21 years. He requested that the hearing be adjourned in order to allow him time to place his case in the hands of counsel. The request was granted, and an adjournment taken until Wednesday

SPAIN IS UNEASY.

The Effect On the Republicans of the Madrid Mass-Meeting Feared.

London, Feb. 8.-The Spanish au therities are decidedly uneasy over the possible character of the demonstra tions at a mass-meeting called at Madrid for Tuesday next. The 11th of Februrary is the anniversary of the abdica tion of Amadeus, the recently deceased Duke of Aosta, and the inauguration of the short-lived republic, a form of government which falled, Spanish theorists say, because it was too tenderhearted to punish the enemies who were openly plotting its destruction. Many think the announced gathering will mark an important era in Spanish history.

An Iberian republic, somewhat after the model of the United States, nicely rounded off by the admission of Portu-gal, is mildly hoped for by such republicans as Ply. Margall and Castellar the Spaniards reminding the inhabi tants of the smaller kingdom how handy it would be in case of another difficulty to belong to a body capable of defending its rights. Senor Gomez is said to have cynically remarked, in reference to such argument, that after the Spaniards have driven the English of protecting other people.

The robbery of the steamer La Plata, discovered after her arrival at Antwerp from Buenos Ayres, proves to have been a deep-laid affair. An oiler and quartermaster of the steamer are missing. They are undoubtedly English professionals, but the collaborator

THE "LA PLATTA ROBBERY,"

Some cipher letters and telegrams have been found in the lodgings he formerly occupied in London, which, so far as they can be construed, intimate that the same parties have patiently worked on the La Plata and other boats and once narrowly missed a much greater haul than the 40,000 pounds which has rewarded their efforts. The significant admonition of Emperor William to the military cadets at the College of Lichterfelde to temper discipline with humanity admirably supplements the warning given by the imprisonment of three Bavarian officers for abusing their men. The Prussian officers are notoriously more merciless to those under them than are the Bavarians. It is said that, in view of the number of men actually killed during the year by the severity of the drill, the Emperor has received advices that in future instances of the kind their comrades will draw lots to see who shall avenge the fate of their brethren in arms.

ROMANCE OF A HOSPITAL Professor Huxley's Son to Marry a

Trained Nurse,

LONDON, Feb. 8 .- A romantic story is that of the engagement, now announced, between Dr. Henry Huxley, son of the eminent professor, and Miss Todd. He was a physician at Bartholomew's Hospital, she a trained nurse in one of the wards. Attracted by her beauty and refinement he paid her marked attention. She snubbed the young doctor.

He persisted and at last succeeded in gaining civil treatment. Being en-gaged in several trying cases together he was struck with admiration at her unselfish devotion and perfect manner of carrying out the details of their orders. She was fascinated by his skill and manly tenderness to the patients under his care. It was the old story soon told. He asked here to marry him. She modestly said "Yes; if Papa Huxley did not object."

Papa Huxley did object. Then, dis-coverning that Miss Todd was a lady, rich and well born, he relented, and on learning further that the lady had taken up the trade of a nurse from purely scientific and anatomical tendencies, approved her course most warmly. The wedding day was fixed, but influenza stepped in and the ardent lover was ordered off to Teneriffe, whither his father accompanied him. Miss Todd is a perfect type of English beauty.

VANDALISM AT CINCINNATI,

Coffins Stelen from the Crematory and Sold at Half Price to the Trade.

CINCINNATI, OHIO., Feb. 8.-Great indignation has been caused by the discovery that bodies sent to the crematory have been removed from the elegant coffins provided by loving relatives and the coffins sold. This disgusting and disease disseminating practice was dis-covered owing to coffins being offered to respectable undertakers at prices absurdly below value.

This caused suspicion, a trap was arranged into which the ghouls speedily fell, and now the full extent of the vandalism is known. It is needless to say dalism is known. It is needless to say that the management at the creamatory is acquitted of all complicity and is doing all in its power to make out an unasswerable case against the thieves. The superintendent, Theodore Hey-man, is, however, openly charged with being the "inside man" who has made the vandalism possible. Not only have these stolen caskets been sold to local undertakers, but some have been shipped even into other States. The casket in which the remains of Dr.

casket in which the remains of Pr.

in an Indiana coffin shop, and by the side of it the tiny receptacle for the infant daughter of Otto Rauchfuss.

Another stolen coffin, valued at nearly $500, had contained the remains of Dr.
J. S. Carter, and had been shipped from New Orleans, where that physician died. This had been sold for mere song, and the shipping marks had not been obliberated. An undertaker named Hurtig was the purchaser, and he had relieved the thieves of several other coffins. The actual thief was an exconvict named Charles Bloom, out of whom a confession was wormed by a local reporter. Bloom, in response to an insinuation of grave yard robbery, said the coffins came from the crema-tory, and that the bodies were removed m them just before the process of incincration commenced:

FOREPAUGH'S SHOW SOLD.

Englishmen Pay Nearly Two Millions For It.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 8.—The Forepaugh circus has been sold. After Frederick Sutterle had met John A. Brown, one of the executors of Adam Forepaugh, sr.'s, will, Thursday night, and unfolded to him the plans and offers of the English syndicate, it was determined to make the sale of the great show property. It is now known that before Adam Forepaugh, sr.'s, death, the negotiations had proceeded so far that no backward steps could be taken, and that Mr. Forepaugh had actually agreed to the terms offered. This agreement was considered binding by the executors. Yesterday all the papers were properly signed to make the transfer effective. There was considerable difficulty in There was considerable difficulty in coming to terms. Finally it was agreed to form a stock company with a capital stock of $1,900,000, the English capitalists agreeing to take two-thirds of the stock and the estate to retain one-third interest. Owing to his intimate knowledge of the business, Adam Forepaugh, jr., has been selected as manager for a term of years and Frederick Sutterle will represent the syndicate in this country and look after their interests. As soon as copies of the agreement can be sent to England the bankers who represent the syndicate will pay the money over to the English representatives of the executors of the estate and it will be transmitted to this countries. try and will be invested under the pro visions of the will.

MIDDLE AGES RECALLED.

A Brooklyn Woman Wants a Girl Ar-rested for Bewitching Her. BROOKLYN, N.Y., Feb. 8,-Mrs. Mary Hertzog of 612 Park avenue, a middle aged woman, has demanded a warrant for Miss Louisa Jungblut, who lives in the same house, whom she charged with having bewitched her. Miss Jungblut, on becoming aware of her ailment, told her what results she had found from the clairvoyant's remedies, and easily induced her to give them a trial. Instead of benefiting Mrs. Hertzog, however, the charms seemed to make her worse, and at last she declared that ghosts had begun to visit her, among them an old maiden aunt, who held up her finger in a threatening manner. Great Improvements.

Great Improvements.

It is not many years ago people traveled on horeback or by stages; now fifty miles an hour is not fast enough for them. Formerly people wrote letters that were weeks in reaching their destination; now the telegraph flashes thought around the world. Formerly doctors bled their patients for nearly every complaint; now they use advanced science of the highest order. Professor Austin Flint of Bellevue College says: "The judicious use of alcoholic stimulants is one of the striking characteristics of progress in the practice of medicine during the last half century." Professor Heury Mott, Ph. D., F. C. S., says: "By a most careful analysis! have found Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey free from adulterations or foreign substances, and it deserves to meet with great success." The well-known Dr. R. W. Hutchinson of New York says: "I highly recommend Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and prescribe it extensively in my practice." Rev. B. Mills of Princeton, lowa, says: "I have used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey with great benefit to my wife, who is a confirmed invalid. I know from experience it is a pure and most valuable medicine. I am also using it in the case of my son, who is threatened with consumption. I am a Presbyterian clergyman and a doctor of divinity, but I am not afraid to

PATTERSON'S BIG FIRE.

OVER $300,000 WORTH OF PROP-ERTY DESTROYED.

Ten Thousand Rounds of Cartridges Stored in a National Guard Ar-mory Explode, and Bullets Are Sent in Every Direction.

PATERSON, N. J., Feb. 8 .- Washington Hall, which occupied a space of ground on Broadway 400 by 600 feet, was burned to the ground about 2 o'clock this morning. The loss will not fall much short of $300,000. A ball was in progress at the time the fire was discovered, but all the guests got out in safety, some, however, leaving their wraps. The fire originated in the basement of the building, and it was only when the dense smoke made its way into the ball-room that the guests were made aware of their great danger.

The building was three stories high, the first floor being occupied as offices and stores. The armory of the First Battalion, N. G. N. J., and the ball-room were situated on the second floor. The lodge rooms of the Ivanhoe F. and

The ledge rooms of the Ivanhoe F. and A. M. were on the top floor.

In the upper part of the building were also the sleeping apartments of the janitor, William Smith, and his wife, both of whom had narrow escapes from suffocation, the latter being carried out in an unconscious state.

The fire, it is now said, was caused by an explosion in the soda water manufactory of Messrs. Swinley in the rear end of the building.

About 2:40, when the flames were at their highest, a rapid fire of musketry took place, frightening every one away from the building. This was caused by the ignition of 10,000 rounds of cartridges in the armory. The fusilade was kept up for some time, sending the buillets in all directions, but no one was lets in all directions, but no one was hurt.

The flames spread to a large threestory building adjoining, which was entirely destroyed, and entailing a loss to a number of families who lived there of $20,000. Peter Owens' house, Day's confectionery and Dowd's photographic establishment were also burned out. In the hall building the Board of Trade rooms, with their valuable library and documents, were completely destroyed. In the armory were 300 rifles and accoutrements, all belonging to rifles and accoutrements, all belonging to the State and these with a Gattling gun were burned up. The only one injured, so far as known, was James Lindsay, a fireman of engine No. 6, who was thrown off a roof and severely injured. The hall was owned by Katz Brothers.

It will be rebuilt.

The large bottling factory and residence of the Boyle brothers, on Fair street, were destroyed. The Von Blarcom flats were not destroyed, although the building was several times on fire. People in the vicinity moved their goods out of their houses, and for a time excitement ran very high. Washington Hall was the largest public hall in the city and the seventh largest

SIXTY YEARS A PREACHER.

Beath of a Pennsylvania Elder Who Never Accepted Pay.

PITTSBURG, PA., Feb. 8 .- David White, an elder of what is known as the Campbellite Church, recently died at his home at Oak Forest, Green County, in his 95th year. He was a contemporary of Alexander Campbell, and one of the most unique characters in West Pennsylvania. During his life he had been daily accustomed to horseback riding, and, though nearly a century old, he had not been ill much over a fortnight altogether, so rugged was his health.

Death was caused by exposure. His aged wife died but a week before him. Elder White had preached continuously for over sixty years. He founded a congregation and built a church at his own expense and preached for the same people forty years without missing a Sabbath or accepting a dollar of salary. A decade or so before the war he twice made a trip to Missouri and back on his faithful horse. He was an earnest abo-litionist, and denounced slavery so vig-orously in that State that the Jayhawkers warned him to desist under penalty

He defied them for a time and continued his work, but by the advice of his friends returned to Pennsylvania before violence was done him. For many years he advised against all ceremony or service at funerals. He main-tained that ceremony did the dead no good, and was no honor to God. The simple lowering of the body in the grave, he contended, was impressive enough for all purposes. In accordance with his belief, his remains will therefore be buried without display.

Rumored Plans of the Louisiana Lot-tery Company.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 8 .- The officials of the Louisiana Lottery Company continue to be silent as to the lottery bill now before the Dakota Legislature. A local afternoon paper, which is by many believed to have been inspired, yesterday gave the following answer to a reader's query: "Does the State lot-tery contemplate removing to North Pakota and establishing a branch

The only response which, after due inquiry, can be made is that the Louisiana Lottery Company's present charter does not expire until 1895; that it may seek a renewal thereof at its present domicile; that the managers of the company do not know the terms and conditions under which North Dakota makes its tender, not having seen the bili which has passed the Senate; that they will not decide in any way upon inducements held out by Dakota until the conditions have been maturely

Two Steamers Being Constructed at

PITTSBURG, PA., Feb. 8.-Commodere Arthur Stegman of the United States of Colombia is in Pittsburg, superintending the construction of two steamers for use in South American waters. The new boats are stern-wheelers. The larger one will be 136 feet long, 27 feet beam and 4 feet depth of hold, and will be put in service on the Magdalena and Caucemines. The other will be 74 feet long, 16 feet beam and 2) feet depth of hold, to be used on the Lebelera fully, and it won't be many years until we will have a dozen Pittsburg boats on we will have a dozen Fittsourg boats on our line. Our trade is chiefly in carry-ing coffee, hides, tobacco, gum and Peruvian bark for export, and dry goods and machinery, which are imported. The unjustly high tariff keeps out almost everything in the way of importations, and as the natives are not of an industrious or mechanical turn of mind themselves the progress of the country is very much retarded in consequence. At Bogota the people think a great deal more of literary pursuits than of manufacturing. About all the factories that are now running are owned by Germans or Americans."

ADRIFT IN A CANOE.

Terrible Suffering of Eight Pelew Islanders on the Pacific. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Feb. 8 .- The American bark Joseph S. Spinney recently brought into Hioga, Japan, eight Pelew Islanders who were picked up at sea in a dying condition. Their story is one of remarkable hardship and unusual vitality, as they were eighteen days at sea in a small dug-out canoe, without foed or water.

It seems they started with their old King to visit a neighboring island, when they were blown out to sea by a hurricane. Their canoe had catamaran at tachments, so it did not get swamped. tachments, so it did not get swamped, yet they suffered torture because they could not shift their positions without swamping the boat, which was only thirty feet by fifteen inches beam. They had no food, and on the eighteenth day the old King decided his young son must be sacrificed to save the lives of his father and others. They had made all preparations for killing the boy when they were rescued.

They were so weak that the ship's crew, had to carry them in their arms.

from the boat. Their stomachs had fallen in, and their bones in some cases protruded through the skin. Six days after the rescue the old King died. Four men recovered rapidly, but it took three ten days before they could walk. They are light copper-colored, and have long hair like women. An effort will be made to send them home, but few vessels touch at the Pelew Islands, which are under Spanish protection.

JERYLL AND HYDE IN LIFE.

San Francisco's Case of a Man With

Two Lives. San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 8 .- San Francisco has a genuine case of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" in the person of a saloon-keeper named Daniel Lahan, who was to-day committed to the Home of the Inebriates. He has been drinking heavily for some time, and it resulted in religious mania. He seemed to recover in the daytime and attended to his business as usual. He is popular in his neighborhood, but is noted for his profanity.

Lately, after swearing all day, just as soon as night fell he became very de-vout, fell on his knees and continued praying nearly all night. He was taken to the hospital by friends, who feared he would injure himself in his religious mania. There he stalked about at night, clad only in a sheet, uttering prayers but by day he cursed everyone who approached his bed. Recently he grew tired of confinement and swore he would When the attendant tried to stop him he leaped at the man's throat and nearly strangled him. Five strong men were required to strap him to his cot. His case is regarded as very interteresting by medical men.

Riley and Nye Are Friends. Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 8.-James Whitcomb Riley was brought to his home here yesterday from Louisville He talked freely about his recent trouble, the first reports of which he says he read, but they shocked him so he has not had the courage to read more. He is astonished that the public has failed to see the spirit of malice, anger and revenge which pervade these reports. He regards Bill Nye as a true friend, and says that the warm affection between Nye and himself is the same that it has always been. He is receiving many friendly letters from all parts of the country. He does not care to think of the future. He says there is no immediate need for it.

Forced to Jump for Their Lives. DALLAS, TEX., Feb. 8 .- The county court house was burned yesterday afternoon, causing a loss of more than $150,000 besides the records and two libraries. The fire originated from furnaces recently placed in the basement of the building. The fire spread with great rapidity and there were several narrow escapes. Commissioner Evans and three of his clerks were forced to jump out of the second story windows, as the fire had cut off escape and reached the second story before ladders could be raised to the windows. The insurance was about $100,000.

"Our supporters in the removal of the said a gentleman in the rotunda of the Riggs last night, "feel very much encouraged over the expressions given in the committee-room of Indian Affairs on Thursday. When I first came here there was a very strong opposition to this movement, but this is being overcome. There is no question but that the lands or reservation now occupied by the Indians could be utilized for agricultural purposes. These Indians will not take advantage of the chances has are given them to cultivate the hat are given them to cultivate the ands in this reservation, but prefer to realize whatever benefits may accrue from the grazing of sheep and cattle. In the new district in Utah, in which it is proposed to locate, there is one of the most thriving grass-growing localities in the West, and why these Indians object to being placed there is a mystery to me. But for the influence that is being brought to bear by the Indian Protection Colony, which seems to think that they Colony, which seems to think that they scent political jobbery in the scheme, and pretend to act in the personal interests of the ancient race, there would virtually be no opposition to the pro-

Mr. L. A. Dunham arrived at the Riggs last night from New York. Mr. Dunham has been identified with the mining interests of the Centennial State since early in the seventies. He is a warm friend of David Day of the Solid Muldoon, and, like this well-known and humorous newspaper owner, de-rives a good income from mining prop erties at Ouray. He is departing from his regular line of business just at pres-ent, and comes to Washington more particularly in the interest of a railway extension in the San Juan country.

Convallis and the flood in Portland. Convallis and Oregon City is as great as it is generally supposed to be, because the people have been expecting something of the kind for some time. Last year," said the Colonel, "we had neither snow nor ice, and this season we have had four weeks of good sleighing. The Willamette has a bridge across it below the city of Portland, only half a mile long, and as this is likely to be blocked up on such occasions as this, the fear of the flood had warned the people of on such occasions as this, the fear of the flood had warned the people of their danger and little damage was done. Portland has progressed more in the past year than in any time in its history. Two thousand new houses have been built and 1,000 more could have been rented were they obtainable. I expect the next census will show from 60,000 to 70,000 population.

A prominent Oregon man said at Willard's last night that Colonel James K. Kelly, formerly United States Senator from Oregon, in leaving public life and applying himself to gathering in the sheckels to help him in his late years, is doing the proper thing. Colonel Kelly left the Senate twelve years ago, and has never taken part in politics or public life since, excepting to serve as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Oregon for a period of six Court of Oregon for a period of six years. The ex-Senator spends his winters in Washington and his summers in Oregon.

At the Riggs last night a pioneer from the newly-admitted State of Montana, Mr. A. Harrison, could be seen in conversation with a number of friends whom he had not seen in many years before. He was telling some startling stories regarding pioneer experiences.
